Crawford County Recreation Activities

Those trout fishermen on the Quality Sections of the AuSable River, Main Stream, are still waiting for the Yellow Drakes to begin in earnest. With any warm weather, this major hatch should begin now. When the hatch begins, it should be fine fishing morning, noon, and evening. And any rains should not stop it either.

South Branch activity is starting, and some nice fish are being taken on Brown Drakes.

Don't forget the mosquitos. This hatch has really begun on the rivers and you will need something to eradicate these pests.

Favorite pastime is deer watching. Drive the trails in the early morning and evening hours. The does and fawns can be seen if you are lucky.

Nancy Jane Knibbs and Bernard R. Rosenberg exchanged nuptial vows Sunday, May 23, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard H. Knibbs, 701 Peninsular Ave., Grayling.

The Rev. Paul C. Frederick officiated for the ceremony of the bride and bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Phill. Caplan and Sherwin Rosenberg, both of Sarasota, Fla.

The bride chose a deep-ivory gown of tulle and batiste with Point de Venise lace in the bodice and on the sleeves. The ruffled skirt was also accented with a wide border of similar lace. Her headpiece was a halo of baby's breath. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Linda Knibbs of Decatur, Ill. She wore an Elizabethan gown of brilliant turquoise blue. The bodice and sleeves featured multi-colored embroidery.

Charles R. Dean of Flint was best man.

Following a reception at the bride's home the couple left for a honeymoon in western Michigan. The new Mrs. Rosenberg wore a cream silk pantsuit with a trim of embroidered flowers for her going-away attire.

They will make their home in Sarasota, Fla., where the bridegroom has accepted a position as a junior high school art instructor.

Guests attending from out of town were from Flint, Royal Oak, Newaygo, Roscommon, Owosso, Utica, Holly and East Lansing.

EDITOR'S MAIL BOX

May 27, 1971

To The Editor,
 The Michigan State Supreme Court Case No. 52319 passed April 5, 1971 will go down in Michigan history as a sad day for true sportsmen and good conservation thinking people. This court decision means Indians and part Indians as far removed as 4th and 5th generations can hunt all game, and fish commercially, anywhere and anytime they want in the Upper Peninsula and in large portions of the lower Peninsula.

With their limited finances and manpower the Dept. of Natural Resources, has done a fine job in managing wildlife and restricting the number of commercial fishing licenses issued annually. Now, this ruling has set conservation and game management programs back to its beginning since it surely will have serious consequences. Deer will be slaughtered in unprecedented numbers. Last year alone the estimated illegal deer killed was between 50 to 60,000 animals. Fishing net will be, and are now, located at strategic spawning grounds throughout our Great Lakes. In just a few years Michigan sportsmen will be completely denied what little we have left.

The time in American history has passed where people or small groups of individuals can do as they choose in taking our game and fish at liberty, as these resources belong to everyone in our State. Giving unlimited rights to a few at the sacrifice of the majority was a very political decision. Again this shows our Judicial Systems failure in understanding fully the consequence of the laws they pass. Beyond the loss of our fish and game population, they have given no thought of the loss of tax dollars from the tourist industry which is second only to auto manufacturing.

There are some groups who have started to organize against this legislation. The best way possible to show your support for conservation is to communicate between one another, join and be active in your conservation clubs and above all write Governor Milliken, Attorney General Kelly and President Nixon in Washington, D.C. The President is the only person who can rescind this order by Presidential Proclamation. Please, do act promptly.

Sincerely,
 Mary R. Heston

ALONG THE TRAIL

Novices tend to follow the path, especially when it is straight and narrow. But even with experienced riders there can be unexpected turns, and it's possible to get lost.

In life there are very few straight paths. It is extremely easy to come upon an unexpected turn, and to encounter doubt, confusion, even despair.

Horseback riding is not compulsory. But you do have a life—and you have to live it. The way is up to you. If we get lost, we can give up, but with the help of the Church, you will find a trustworthy guide which will renew your faith and clear the way to the path of eternal fulfillment.

Grayling, Michigan — Thursday, June 3, 1971

Boy Scouts' Soar

Paradoxically, as concern for the environment increases, roadside litter and individual slovenliness seem to have become evermore prevalent. The current crop of adults is apparently destined to go down as the worst generation of litterbugs in history — unless the younger generation can shame them into changing their ways.

One important group among the younger generation, The Boy Scouts of America — all 6 million of them — will be out in force on June 5 in observance of "Scouting Keep America Beautiful Day." The 6 million Boy Scouts will engage in a gigantic litter clean-up operation to focus public attention on the tremendous proportions of the problem. Hundreds of thousands of people in other organizations — industrial, conservation, and governmental agencies — have pledged their active support. They will make a point in their litter collection of separating from the trash such items as glass, aluminum, steel and newspaper that can be reused and thus reduce the drain on natural resources used in making manufactured products.

The June 5 litter clean-up campaign of the Scouts is called, "Save Our American Resources" — or SOAR. In making their project a success, the Scouts are asking everyone to join in their effort to further the cause of litter prevention, waste disposal and recycling of used products. It is a cheering thought to realize that what fines and laws are unable to force in the way of litter prevention, the Boy Scouts may help accomplish through example and education.

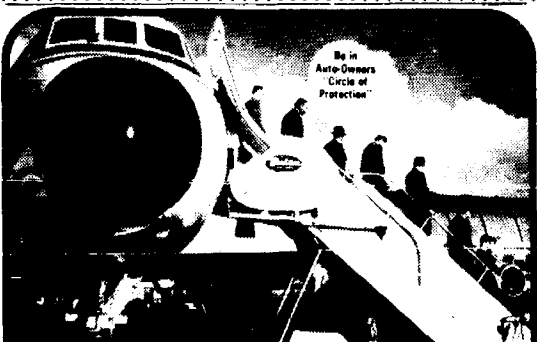

SULLIVAN, ILL., PROGRESS: "Now we have a new ceiling for the National debt limit — something like $420 billion. This was approved by Congress just in time to 'save' us as the national debt reached the existing ceiling which was $395 billion. 'Just money', most people will doubtless think. 'We've always had the national debt and we'll always have it' seems to be the usual way of thinking. Furthermore it is something of which the 'in' party is always concerned at Washington — and also something about which no one ever does anything constructive. President Nixon speaks of 'sharing revenue' with the states of our country. What kind of revenue has he to share? The truth of the matter is that all he has to share is this almost $400 billion which our government already owes."

Great Lakes Shoreline Problems Prompt Conference

With Great Lakes water levels already unusually high and expected to keep rising through this summer, shorelines in the area are going to take a bad beating in 1971, causing serious erosion, endangering coastal cottages, and creating eyesores of poorly developed groins, as dramatized here. The accelerating scope of these problems and guidelines to move them under a coordinated plan of positive action will be spotlighted May 26-28 at a conference on Coastal Zone and Shoreline Management in the Great Lakes to be held at University City. The meeting, being cosponsored by the University of Michigan Sea Grant Program and the Michigan Water Resources Commission, will bring out the expertise of speakers and panelists from the entire Great Lakes region and other parts of this country and Canada, including from ocean coastal states. The conference will pack particular importance for those governmental officials of local units who have less than 5 years to establish Great Lakes shoreline zoning controls within their areas of jurisdiction. For more information on the May 26-28 conference, contact: Conference Coordinator, Sea Grant Program, Room 1536, School of Natural Resources, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48101. —Michigan Department of Natural Resources

Remodeling an old home is a project to enter into with caution if you want to emerge with joy. The trick is to proceed slowly, bone up on remodeling, choose a contractor carefully, insist on quality, and check all work as it progresses. Then you're more apt to be house-proud when the work is finished.

Actually there are many good reasons for remodeling an older house. It often has sturdy basic construction on which to modernize, and the value of the property will be enhanced. It's also less expensive to build an addition or make improvements than to build a new house. And you can stay in your own familiar neighborhood without disrupting the entire family.

Of course, there'll be moments when you wished you hadn't tackled the project. About the time the plumber drives over your new young son's, the family has eaten out three days in a row, the cat has disappeared, and the aspirin is buried boxes-deep in the garage, you'll be ready to call it quits.

But if your house is basically sound and you have the help of a good contractor, remodeling can be well worth the effort. A contractor is really essential unless you are more knowledgeable about building than most home owners. He can help you avoid costly mistakes and save you money in the long run.

For example, patching a leaky roof rarely saves money since roofs wear out all over. One leak generally means more to come. Selecting the right kind of roofing is another important factor if you are to have the long-lasting protection you want for your home.

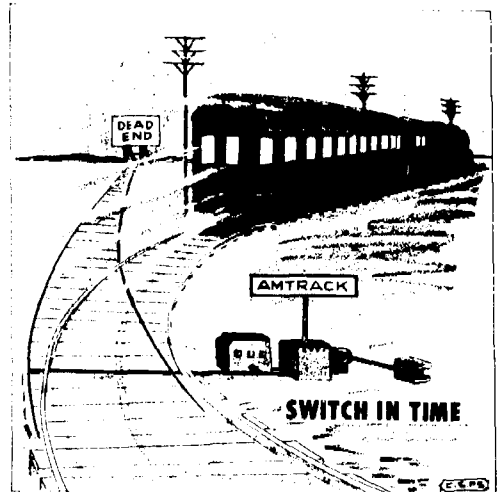

You'll find books on home remodeling at your bookstore or library. Magazines on the home also offer ideas and list product information.

Firms Are Offered Anti-Litter Symbol

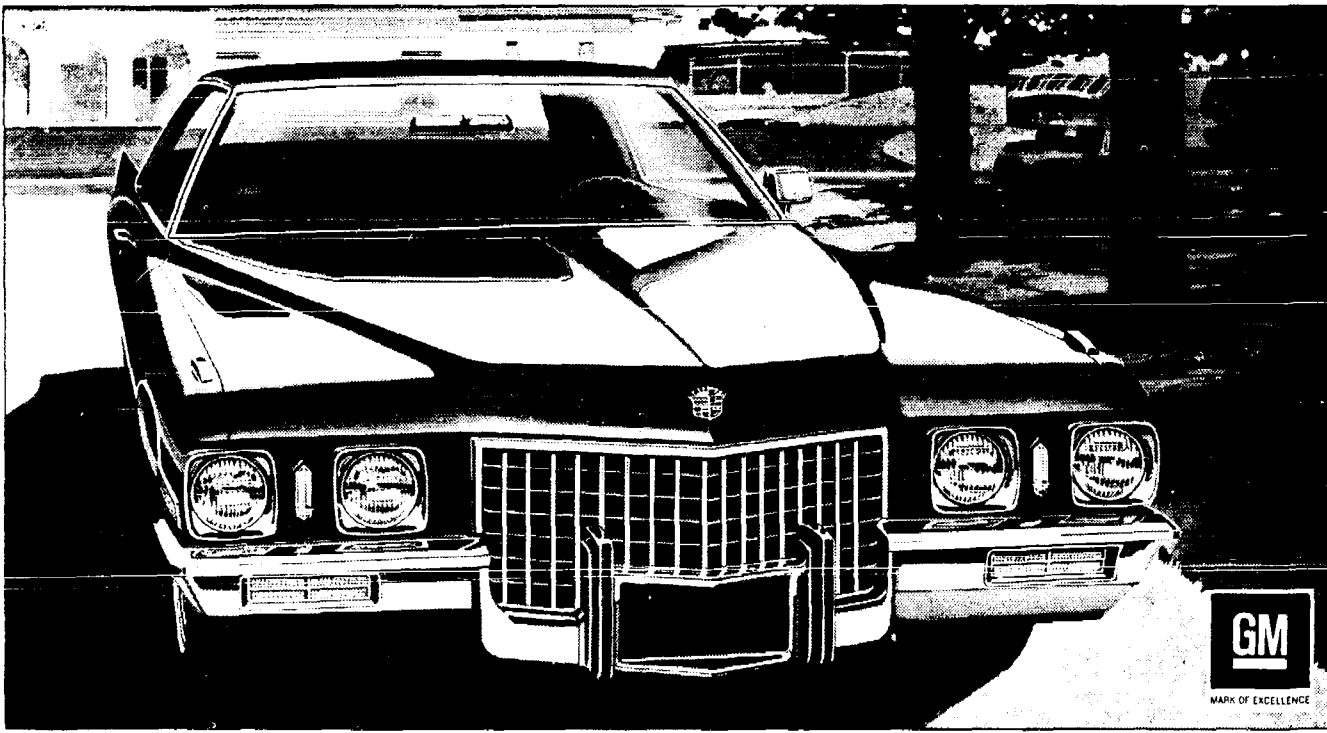

A new anti-litter symbol, designed for use by Eastman Kodak Company, is being offered to other companies throughout the country.

The symbol is a trash container designed to spell the words "Litter Here."

The objective of the message is simple—a plan for everyone to use a trash container for litter.

Gerald B. Zornow, Kodak's president, said, "We are not trademarking the design and will be happy to have others use it."

The symbol will be used as a repeated design on wrap material for most varieties of Kodak film.

Cadillac for 1971. It could well be your best car buy any way you look at it.

Styling. It's a carefully created combination of styling continuity and contemporary flair.

Comfort. A longer wheelbase and new suspension system mean an even smoother ride.

Performance. The proven 472-cubic-inch V-8 is amazingly responsive—on regular gasoline or no-lead and low-lead fuels.

Luxury. In the incredible quietness inside, in the beautiful standard appointments and in the many features you can order. Choice. The first Cadillac luxury you enjoy. There are nine models from which to choose.

Value. A Cadillac traditionally returns a larger portion of original investment than any other car built in the land. Cadillac is the leader—any way you look at it. And now is the time to look at it—at your authorized Cadillac dealer's showroom.

Cadillac 1971

Cadillac is doing something about traffic safety, but some things only you can do. You might be surprised by the scope of our involvement in advancing the cause of safety.

Did you know, for instance, that Cadillac was the first to install safety glass in its cars? And introduced the triple braking system?

Today you can see evidence of the magnitude of our concern. The 1971 Cadillac incorporates a host of recent safety developments. Including an energy absorbing steering column. Padded instrument panel. Seat belts for all passenger positions. Side-Guard steel beams in the doors.

And the work goes on. But all our efforts will not be enough, unless you do your share.

Here are five ways you can help. 1. Always use your seat and shoulder belts. 2. Make sure your car is in good running order. 3. Never drive when you're tired or under the influence of alcohol. 4. Support driver training and uniform traffic codes and enforcement. 5. Drive defensively. Please. Will you do your part?

"If It Fitz . . ."

Pass Something To Mother

By Jim Fitzgerald

When you sit down to eat at our house, you get to chew on a lot more than food.

And this is a good thing, says Dr. Dena Cederquist who is a nutrition expert at Michigan State University. Of course, she's never eaten at our house. We never feed strangers at our house, unless they are cats.

Dr. Cederquist bemoans the loss of the family dinner-hour. Today, people eat on the run, she complains, and that's bad—not only for your digestion, but also for your mind, personality and character.

"The dinner table was a place where ideas were exchanged, questions debated and where children learned to be part of a group," Dr. Cederquist says.

It is a shame Dr. Cederquist is a woman. Otherwise, she might have married my wife and they certainly would have lived happily ever after. This would have left me a lonely bachelor, reading a newspaper as I ate my meals, with no kids fighting across the roast beef and no cats licking crumbs off my shoes. Under such miserable conditions I probably couldn't have survived more than 150 years before I died of a terrible ache in my side from laughing so much.

My wife likes to teach lessons in living at the dinner table. For instance, during a recent dinner I happened to catch sight of her through the flowers and candles in the middle of the table. She looked peaked and drawn. There was no food on her plate.

"Why aren't you eating?" I asked her. "Because no one will pass me any food," she gasped, writhing in the last stages of malnutrition.

All the food was on my side of the centerpiece where I could suck it up without even leaning forward. Attacking from the sides, both kids could also easily grab what they wanted. But my wife couldn't even see the food.

"Why don't you ask us to pass something?" I asked. "I shouldn't have to ask," she answered.

It occurred to me that the food is always placed at my end of the table, every meal, every day.

"How long has it been since you've eaten?" I asked her.

"About a month," she said. "The last time was when the kids had guests and I got to sit at your end of the table."

"You set the table every meal. Why do you always put the food at my end? Why don't you put some at your end?" I asked her.

"I want to teach this family some manners," she said. "You shouldn't just sit down and gobble. You should always pass the food plates around and you should never have to be asked to pass something."

"Not even the butter?" I asked.

"I might have asked for the butter but I never had anything to spread it on," she said as she slowly slumped to the floor.

"What's wrong with Mother?" our daughter asked.

"She has passed out from not having anything passed," our son explained. "It's a good thing she didn't fall on my cat."

Onward and Upward.

by PETER G. HAMMOND
Executive Director

on Drug Education

Too many Americans have conveniently defined drug abuse as the use of an illegal substance. This definition, focuses attention on marijuana, lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD), heroin and other so-called "dangerous" drugs. These are obviously drugs that young people use, so the drug abuse problem is equated with youth and their use, need and dependence on chemical substances. The definition ignores the "legal" drugs, alcohol, tobacco and caffeine and it does not distinguish between substances or reflect dosage levels.

All drugs, including aspirin and alcohol, have effective toxic and lethal dosage levels. Among other variables the temperature, place, and method of administering a drug affect the lethal dosage level; therefore, the "dangerousness" or effect of a drug is largely a function of non-drug factors.

When we accept these facts we have a rational basis for discussing the other aspects of the drug abuse problem. We then realize that the term drug is any substance which by its chemical nature alters the structure or function of a living organism, and that abuse is that dosage level of a drug which substantively interferes with the normal function of an organism to the extent of causing bodily harm.

While this preceding discussion is based on scientific evidence, society does not necessarily function that way. Our social approach to drugs is emotional and too often irrational. Drugs affect both private and public behavior and provoke value judgments about pleasure. They influence a gamut of social, legal and economic interactions. That is where confusion begins and that is what drug education has to reorder, clarify and find solutions for.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q My employer is withholding less income tax from my paycheck this year. Does this mean that I might owe tax next year?

A It could. Income tax withholding rates are lower in 1971 mainly because the standard deduction was increased. Withholding is also lower for single persons because tax rates for this group were reduced.

But for some, withholding won't cover this year's liability; and underwithholding could result for those earning over $11,500.

If your present withholding won't cover this year's liability, you can avoid owing money next April by dropping exemptions now or, if you are already claiming no exemptions, by asking your employer to withhold an additional amount.

Q My income is low, and I never pay any tax although I file every year to obtain a refund. Is there anything that I can do to stop my employer from withholding taxes?

A Yes. You should file a Form W-4E with your em-

Q I have received a gift from the bank because I made a long-term deposit. Must I pay taxes on this gift?

A Yes. In general, the fair market value of property received for making a deposit or opening an account in a savings institution is income and must be reported as interest income in the year received.

Q My employer withholds tax from my regular salary. But I occasionally do outside work which is not subject to withholding. Must I file a Declaration of Estimated Tax?

A You must file a Declaration of Estimated Tax if your estimated tax due at the time your return is filed is $40 or more and if your estimated gross income for 1971 includes more than $200 in income not subject to withholding. However, instead of filing a declaration you may increase withholding by dropping exemptions being claimed or having additional sums withheld.

"Estimated tax" is the amount by which the total of your estimated income tax and estimated self-employment tax exceeds the expected withholding from your pay. The Declaration of Estimated Tax for 1971 and the first payment are due on April 15, the same date that your 1970 income tax return is due. Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax," contains additional information and is available at Internal Revenue Offices.

Q I am retired with a company pension and an annuity. Can I have tax withheld on these payments?

A Yes. You may use Form W-4P to request the payer to withhold any whole dollar amount. However, the amount to be withheld must be at least $5 a month and must not reduce the net pension or annuity payment to less than $10 a month.

Jack Pine's Stump

Sunday we celebrated Memorial Day. "Celebrated" is a strange word to use, but custom dictates its use. Actually, it is a day when we remember those who have given their lives in the service of their country. Today that expression doesn't mean as much as it used to. Some of today's people look down on the military and on those who man its forces. Some even abuse the parents and wives of those who have been killed in Vietnam. We live in strange times when social ideals can take such a sick turn.

It was different a few years ago when respect for the flag and school prayers were common. And still in these times, millions of good, decent citizens will turn out to march or turn to their God for prayers in remembrance of those who really never had a chance to decide whether they wanted to serve their country. They simply went — and died — because their country asked them to. They didn't run to Canada, tear up draft board offices or throw bombs into public buildings. It is sad commentary indeed that those radical few get all the news coverage, while the people who have a feeling for this country — which I admit is having a lot of trouble right now — are cast as "establishment do-nothing types".

Maybe I guess the only reason these types don't tear up an SDS, White Panther or Black Panther building is because they believe in law and order and, thank God, the American democratic process.

Have just read that May 9th was a milestone. According to the National Chamber of Commerce, it was the day when American taxpayers started working for themselves. Prior to that date, we, technically, had worked to pay federal, state and local taxes. Out of an eight hour working day, wages for two hours and fifty minutes are earmarked for taxes. How do you like them apples?

Another bit of interesting trivia comes in from "Resources", a publication issued by the Canadian Council of Resource Ministers. It seems that a Copenhagen company is packaging ice cubes from 2,000 year old Greenland glaciers and selling them as a pollution free product for better, untainted drinks. They are advertised as "a whisper from bygone ages."

Have you heard of the Grayling Booster Club yet? Well, it consists of a group of Grayling citizens who want to help our local kids. Particularly kids involved in athletics, like Little Leaguers and the Viking Varsity Basketball team. Contributions are being sought to get the Club rolling. Funds are needed right now to assure that our basketball team can travel to the U.P. for a summer training session. And, of course, Little League is going on too.

On June 12th a big kick off dinner is being held at the American Legion Hall. Tickets are two bucks each for a Swiss steak dinner — all you can eat. You can be a Charter Member by joining the Grayling Boosters now. There's something going on every week. Check and find out. You'll be doing yourself a big favor and be helping the kids, too. Those are two of the best reasons I can think of for doing anything.

Contact Jim Kitchen, Charles Bonamie, Jim Bendig, Bob Hannan, Irving McIsaac, Jack Mead, Jack Mason, George McEvers or Leroy Papendick for more details, tickets to the dinner or a Charter Membership. Today.

Just heard about a local woman who is going to night school and graduated last week — the same day as her birthday. Some people had a big cake for her and someone asked if she did well at school. "Sure, in the upper ten of my class," she answered. "How many in the class?" "Just eight," she said.

Leaf Litter Destroys Lake

By Willard Bosserman
County Extension Director

Leaves dumped into our lakes and streams can destroy them. Leaves are organic and rob oxygen from the water when they decompose. This lowers the oxygen supply in the water that is needed by fish and other aquatic life for survival.

The good word is, do not throw your leaves into the lake or river. I am writing this because people have reported to me that some are still using our bodies of water for leaf disposal. That practice is a no-no.

There are several socially accepted ways in which to dispose of leaves. One and perhaps the easiest way is to haul them to the nearest sanitary land fill. They do not pose an environmental pollution problem in the landfill. Another way is to compost them.

Composting can eliminate a pollution problem and enrich the environment. Organic grinders are available which reduces the volume of leaves for making a compost pile and gets faster action too. The grinders will take small branches from trees. These can be put in the compost pile also.

Directions for composting can be obtained by writing or coming to the Cooperative Extension Service office in the county building, Roscommon.

Composting is something the individual can do to protect the lake, prevent air pollution and enrich the soil.

This can also be operated on a larger scale. Organic solid wastes can be composted with sewage sludge and used to enrich our soil. Organic solid wastes are paper and wood products which can be decomposed by soil organisms. Perhaps cost share through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service would be needed to defray some of the costs of composting and transporting to rural areas. The composted material can then be incorporated into the soil.

The paper and wood products act as nitrate traps. The soil organisms demand great quantities of nitrogen to decompose such high carbon products. The resulting humus is only slowly decomposed, thus trapping nitrates in a form which is highly useful for plant growth but immobile. This immobility keeps nitrates in the soil and out of our water courses.

Save our earth compost.

Dean Harkins Resigns Staff At Kirtland

Dean of Students Edward P. Harkins has announced his resignation from the Kirtland Community College staff to become effective on June 30, 1971. His resignation was regrettably accepted by the Board of Trustees at their regular meeting last week. Members of the Board also voiced gratitude and appreciation for his excellent achievements in the developing of Kirtland and expressed wishes for continued success in education.

Dean Harkins was the second member to join the initial administration of Kirtland back in August of 1967 and has spent four years assisting the college to its present state of development.

Mr. Harkins stated that he has enjoyed his four years at Kirtland and expressed real pleasure in his association with the fine student body, the entire staff, and the Board of Trustees. He said "I feel confident that Kirtland will continue to grow and develop into an even finer institution under the direction and leadership of the present staff and Board." Mr. Harkins commended members of the Board who have served diligently in developing the facilities now in operation at Kirtland.

Because of a desire to return to the suburban area, Mr. Harkins is in the process of looking at some administrative positions in the outskirts of Detroit.

The Harkins' family regret leaving their many friendships made while residing in this area of the state.

Film Series

ening relations with their local communities by sponsoring the second showing for the general public. College presidents, rather than art, history or humanities departments, have been asked to sponsor the program, in order to emphasize its availability to the whole student body.

Since its American premiere at the National Gallery in November, 1969, the entire "Civilization" series has been shown nearly a hundred times and drawn more than 275,000 viewers at the Gallery. It is currently being seen throughout the United States on National Educational Television, supported by a grant from Xerox Corporation.

In the series, Kenneth Clark traces, from an avowedly personal point of view, the story of Western civilization through the visual arts, music, literature, and political history, from the fall of the Roman Empire through the 20th century. The films were originally produced for the British Broadcasting Corporation, which sent Lord Clark, two producers, and a three-man camera crew on a two-year mission through 11 countries to film the series. In Lord Clark's words, the aim was "to define civilization in terms of creative power and the enlargement of human faculties."

The film's many subjects include the Gothic cathedrals, the age of chivalry, St. Francis of Assisi, the Renaissance and the Reformation, the baroque and rococo, bourgeois democracy in Holland and the Dutch painters, the Enlightenment in Europe and America, romanticism and revolution in the 19th century, and modern technology and materialism.

In honor of Lord Clark's many contributions to art education as Director of the National Gallery, London (1934-45), Slade Professor of Fine Arts, Oxford University (1946-50 and 1961-62), author of several books and creator of the "Civilization" series, the National Gallery has presented him with its Medal for Distinguished Service to Education in Art.

The Gallery's Extension Services serve the nation through a varied program of activities ranging from films and reproductions to special publications. Although the emphasis of the Services is on the National Gallery's collections, attention also goes to ways in which these collections relate to subjects of current topical interest and concern in the world. Schools and groups may obtain further information through the office of Assistant Administrator (Extension Services).
